Best for areas outside of Prague

By LD

This is the most thorough book on the small towns outside the large cities of these two countries. I found a lot of details that were helpful in planning my routing to see things of interest to me.

The book begins with general areas of interest and where to go to see them: landscape and wildlife, architecture, music, decorative arts, and literature. Highlights for each month of the year will help you choose when to go. The history section is quite good and you really need to have some background to enjoy your visit unless you only are interested in shopping. When you are on site you will wonder how this (fill-in the blank) got to look this way. Travel in the region will expose you to things you haven't seen elsewhere.

The countries are divided into regions and then each city has a description and many include maps, photos, cross-sections of buildings, and suggested walking tours.

In the back you will find an abbreviated list of hotels and restaurants. It will give you an idea of price ranges but I would look to Lonely Planet for inexpensive places and Fodor's for those who travel first class. DK Eyewitness has the best overall book and I would make decisions on where to go based on the descriptions. Then I would consult Lonely Planet if you are using buses and trains.

Based primarily on the book's descriptions, from these 3 base locations I took half-day trips to:

Prague: Dobris, Krivoklat

Olomouc: Pernstejn, Kromeriz, Lednice, Valtice, Bouzov

Cesky Krumlov: Budejovice, Hluboka, Prachatice, Trebon

Not only were these destinations enthralling, but the trip to get there showed me the countryside

... it was very helpful when it came to finding good restaurants and hotels

By Bertha B.

I took this along on my trip and it was very helpful when it came to finding good restaurants and hotels. Also tells a lot about the different areas!

Great book!
